Introducing the iCar

Looks cool, huh? Driving around in this Bondi Blue and white performance machine, people will know that you're a high-tech kind of person. But you didn't buy an iCar just for its looks. No way. Because underneath the skin, you know there beats an engine pretty much like the engine in our other cars. Solid. Dependable. And, best of all, priced to sell. We've had to cut a few corners here and there (a gas tank is optional), but we make up for it with a great sense of style. Check out the rectangular steering wheel. It's not as comfortable or as easy to use as a round steering wheel, but it looks neat. Plus, you never have to open the hood to see how your iCar is running, because you can see right through the skin. Like we said, cool.
